Introduction

Welcome

We're excited to officially launch Together makes progress.

As we take this historic step, we begin with two words: Thank you. For all you've done to help build the world's #1 professional services brand to date. For your insight, skill and passion in shaping this platform and the brand that powers it. And, most important, for all you'll do to lift, build and protect the Deloitte brand into the future. You truly are as awesome as the brand you've helped build.

Now let's go!

Introduction

The rollout

Deloitte* ranks as the No. 1 professional services brand in the world—valued at $41.1 billion. We aim to optimize that value across Deloitte … and grow it.

That's why in 2025 Deloitte reinvigorated the brand platform—Together makes progress—which expands our brand guidelines with a new tagline code and logo lock up.

Together is how we stand apart

Together makes progress was developed to drive home Deloitte's multidisciplinary model (MDM) and our belief in the power of together. Both are clear competitive advantages and revenue multipliers for Deloitte. Brand perception studies show that clients see Deloitte as "The Multi-Specialist" and a leader in important areas of technology, like AI. Moreover, we're known for collaboration, strong relationships, industry breadth, service integration and scale. Taken together, those attributes make us the top choice for large, complex business transformations.

Our refreshed platform creates opportunity

In the United States, we see this platform as an opportunity to modernize design through new applications of type, color and circular motifs. We've started with our most visible and supported campaigns for US Brand, SGOs and other major initiatives. This guide provides the direction designers and marketers need to follow suit while staying true to the core elements and ethos of our powerhouse brand.

For more on US firm guidelines, see Brand Space.

Platform messaging

Introduction

It's noisy and competitive out there, even when you work for the No. 1 professional services brand in the world. To stand out, we all need a single, consistent answer to the question, "Why Deloitte?"

Our answer is, Together makes progress*.

Why? Because Together makes progress has the power to build pride in our people and loyalty with our clients. It embodies what we believe, why we win and how we matter. It speaks directly to our MDM approach and ability to convene alliances, advise, and solve at scale. And it will help us drive measurable, business impact for years to come.

In the following section, we'll provide the basics of infusing the spirit of Together makes progress into your communications. For on-brand development of communications themes, examples of copy, and more extensive guidelines, please visit Brand Space.

Tagline & core themes

Together makes progress

We are known for:

- MULTIDISCIPLINARY: Bringing people, disciplines and solutions together
- COLLABORATIVE: Building trusted professional relationships through integrity, perspective, character and quality
- CONVENING: Uniting alliances, assets, and tools

We believe in:

- SOLVING: End-to-end and right at all levels—human, domain, business and industry
- INNOVATING: Business breadth and depth applied with a full command of technology
- CREATING: Original solutions, created with intention, utility, and purpose

We stand for:

- PURPOSEFUL: Positive, meaningful difference
- ADVANCING: Transformative outcomes, technology-driven scale
- IMPACTFUL: Measurable results

Core themes as a narrative

The following expresses the tone of Together makes progress and how it fits thematically into the current marketplace and climate of constant change and innovation. It is not meant to be a menu of phrases to be copied and pasted into communications. It is meant to serve as a perspective on our platform and what it can mean to our audiences.

Global imperative	Progress of any kind is hard to make. Today's challenges are deeply complex. Opportunities are often fleeting. Faced with making progress on your own, it can be tough even knowing where to start. But together, is the force that can change everything.	The complexity we face requires we take a multidiscipline approach … together.
MDM approach	Together, we not only see the problem or opportunity, we understand it from its multiple angles. We see the way an idea here might create a risk there. Or how data for one area could transform another. Together also powers world-defining progress. It's how ideas inspire belief and build momentum. How insight from one market sparks benefit around the globe. How purpose shapes industries for the better.	MDM reveals what no one of us can see or comprehend on our own. It also works as a magnet and force multiplier that advances us all.
Character + Results	And together is why clients and professionals look to Deloitte. They trust that we'll bring together the necessary perspectives, skills and technologies that progress demands. With speed, scale and integrity.	Clients see our work and sense our integrity, giving them confidence in what we do and stand for.
Impact	So that our hard-won progress isn't just made by us. It matters to all.	The result is an impact that matters.
Summary	Deloitte. Together makes progress.

Storytelling guidance—Message alignment

Storytelling is the foundation of any piece of effective communication.

We applied the Together makes progress platform and leaned into our brand narrative (previous slide), which speaks to our multidisciplinary approach and the progress we deliver in the face of complexity and uncertainty.

We want you to do the same for your service and market. As we said before, our success hinges on it.

See Brand Space for complete messaging guidelines, including examples for communication themes and boilerplate copy.

Complete messaging guidelines →

Before sitting down to write any piece of communication, two questions can help frame your thinking:

What is coming together?

- What are we connecting?
- People with technologies? Alliances?
- Are we bringing our businesses together with our MDM approach?

What progress are we making?

What is the impact that we're making? It can be smaller, incremental progress or it can be transformational—or something in between.

Platform messaging

Storytelling guidelines—Voice and personality

Every brand has a personality. Ours is clear, confident and human. Here's how to convey that as you write and design.

- Clarity comes first.
  All communication should be clear, concise and have a point of view.
- Let the tagline do the work.
  Our tagline conveys how we're different. By simply applying the logo lock up with tagline, where appropriate, and following Brand Space guidance, you're supporting consistency in branding. See the sections on the restriction of use of the logo lockup and tagline with the guidelines on Brand Space.
- Insightful beats clever.
  Generating "catch phrases" meant to define a service as its own "brand" is less effective than applying the core Deloitte brand to convey unique insights, approaches and services.
- Be human.
  Always look to hit a conversational, person-to-person style that fits the tone of our tagline and stays true to our brand's voice.
- Show genuine optimism.
  Deloitte's brand is positive and has a high emotional quotient. We seek to move things forward. No matter how difficult the moment, express genuine optimism in the face of change and you're expressing the brand.
- Meet people where they are.
  Context and audience matter. Understand what your audience needs and its level of knowledge—and communicate accordingly.
- Convey purpose.
  Purpose is foundational to our positioning. In all that we create, the goal to make an impact on the project, client, industry or business world should not be lost.

See Brand Space for complete messaging guidelines, including examples for communication themes and boilerplate copy.

Storytelling guidelines—Protecting our tagline

The new tagline will often appear locked up with our logo, but where and how you use it outside the lockup can impact its power and distinctiveness. Here's how to apply it consistently and protect it at the same time.

Use the lockup:

When we use our tagline and lockup in marketing pieces,* we accomplish two important business and brand objectives:

- Distinction
  Together makes progress is our answer to how Deloitte consistently helps move the business world forward amid complexity and uncertainty.

- Unity
  A common tagline helps to unify our voice and anchor storytelling across our many services, disciplines, and businesses.

*Reference the specific exceptions to the logo lockup (i.e., regulated businesses) within the guidelines on Brand Space.

Platform messaging

Storytelling guidelines—Protecting our tagline

Don’t “fix” the grammar:

- The Deloitte tagline uses an intentionally provocative grammatical structure. It's purposefully "together makes progress" not "together, we make progress."
- Like Apple’s “Think Different” (not: Think Differently) or AT&T’s “Rethink possible” (not: Rethink what’s possible), it signifies that we are comfortable and confident in our point of view. It pushes the meaning of the phrase beyond the normal. And it makes the line more ownable and memorable.

See Brand Space for complete messaging guidelines, including examples for communication themes and boilerplate copy.

Complete messaging guidelines →

Help it stand apart:

- Correct style: Together makes progress (sentence case, no period when used as a stand-alone tagline, italics).
- Full tagline only: Do not change a word to create variations of the tagline. Examples of what not to do: Together makes quality; Connection makes progress; Together sparks progress, etc. Also, please DO NOT shorten the tagline to an acronym (like TMP), even internally.
- Prevent overuse: Speak to the core ideas and rationale behind the tagline as opposed to using together, makes or progress repeatedly in headlines, copy or scripts.

Use it correctly for regulated businesses:

- If developing materials for regulated businesses, please review, follow and bookmark our A&A Guardrails and Tax Guardrails.

Storytelling guidelines

When creating messages that don't utilize the tagline, you may instead pull through the spirit of the tagline.

To help us avoid the overuse of the three words of the tagline, but aid in message delivery, we have created the following table*, which consists of alternative ways to express "together," "makes" or "progress":

- Synonyms (words with the same or very similar meaning)
- Related words (which can be used to imply "together," "makes" or "progress")
- Deloitte terms (which describe how we deliver "together," "makes" or "progress")

*Note, not all words are interchangeable. The appropriateness of these words is dependent on the content of the message and the business to which it relates.

Platform visual system

Introduction

At Deloitte, together is about unity, not uniformity. Our refreshed platform is built to serve that vision and help promote a mindset that focuses efforts on storytelling rather than the generation of unique circular identities. As you look through this style guide, you'll notice some key differences compared to previous guidelines.

1. We're moving away from creating individual visual identities.

Our expanded visual system is still based on a circle, but it uses a combination of motifs, expressions in applying those motifs and composition to ensure that businesses can express their unique positions while adhering to core brand elements.

2. We've expanded the design toolbox to give you more flexibility.

In the toolbox are color backgrounds, full bleed and circle-cut imagery, italicized type, color gradients and more. This allows for individualized expression across businesses and services without the need to create and repeatedly reinvent primary circular graphics.

3. The system is built to better serve the brand-to-demand funnel.

Greater flexibility in the use of primary circles and core elements such as type and color create a more logical, less repetitive journey for prospects. The deeper they move into the funnel, the greater the focus on substance and content.

Brand codes

There are five brand codes that serve as the foundation that binds the Deloitte brand together. Guidance on color, logo, circular motif and personality allow flexibility and consistency across every brand touch point. All five codes must be evident on the primary surfaces (e.g., covers, landing pages, event installations, etc.) of all branded communications, regardless of core or edge placement on the brand architecture.

Our toolkit

The elements shown here draw visual and conceptual inspiration from Deloitte's brand codes including its logo, color and personality.

Each category contains highly interchangeable visual components, allowing for a diverse yet cohesive brand experience that resonates with the audience.

NOTE: The motifs shown here are a starter set. We fully anticipate that designers will create new motifs that can be used as part of the system, over time. Please see the "Motifs & expressions" section for more information.

How to represent Deloitte from brand to demand

Deloitte's visual brand expression is designed to be flexible, allowing the circle motif to adapt to accommodate a spectrum of use cases.

NOT ENGAGED — ENGAGED

BRAND | DEMAND

AWARENESS

At the top of the funnel, what we consider "broad" awareness, we are introducing—or reintroducing—Deloitte to our audience. At this highest level of brand expression, the circle should be a predominant element but also should push creative boundaries with bold and compelling compositions and cropping.

DEMAND GEN

As the user continues to engage with our brand down the funnel, we will evolve the visual approach to address their needs and goals at each step of the journey. Visuals will become more content focused, incorporating looser interpretations of the circle element. At every level, however, the visuals will retain a cohesive look and feel that helps Deloitte show up as a strong, unified, and memorable brand.

Together makes progress

New brand code

The tagline is a new brand code. Assigning the tagline as a code marks its significance to the overall impact and meaning of Deloitte communications, and the understanding of our brand by audiences.

It will help drive consistency, and make sure the tagline, and therefore the Together makes progress idea, is seen in every instance that it should be.

General usage & placement

There are specific use cases for the logo lockup that differ from the other four codes—logo, color, circle and personality.

- The tagline will not be present on every single primary surface of a Deloitte communication.
- The tagline will largely be used on primary surfaces to drive recognition.
- There are communications where it is not relevant, practical or appropriate.

When not to use

Generally, the logo lockup should not be used on documents intended to be shared with Restricted Entities, as its use could be misconstrued as compromising independence.

Please refer to the "Brand tagline use" section on Brand Space for details on use cases.

Logo lockup*

Together makes progress Deloitte logo lockup options

The use of which lockup to use will be driven by the specific goals of the communication piece and the context in which it is being used. While our tagline can enhance brand messaging and provide clarity, it's important to balance this with considerations of design aesthetics, space constraints, messaging, and the established recognition of the brand.

Guidance on how to choose

This style guide provides examples and guidance on how to approach the variations of our logo lockup. Please consult with your creative teams or the brand team to determine the right lockup and treatment.

Primary lockup

General, all purpose, most use cases.

In general, the Together makes progress lockup should be used in place of a stand-alone logo for advertising and marketing materials (internal and external). For brand communications where the logo is relatively small and the tagline is at risk of being illegible, lead with this option.

Secondary lockup

For larger applications (print & OOH).

For brand communications in OOH, A/V and any large-format application, where there is no risk of tagline illegibility, lead with this option where tagline is legible but much more subordinate to the logomark.

Untethered lockup

Minimal use cases like merch & bespoke applications.

In very rare situations, we use the tagline as a statement to capture attention. Some use cases include events, digital signage, merch or unique & bespoke instances.

*Generally, the logo lockup should not be used on documents intended to be shared with Restricted Entities. Please refer to the 'Brand tagline use' section on Brand Space for details.

Logo lockup*

Together makes progress Deloitte logo lockup color

There are two distinct color combinations for the Together makes progress Deloitte logo lockup. Each has been created to ensure that the logo is always highly visible. Black with Deloitte green dot for light backgrounds. White with Deloitte green dot for dark backgrounds. Black versions are provided for grayscale use only. You can find the lockup files here.

*Generally, the logo lockup should not be used on documents intended to be shared with Restricted Entities. Please refer to the 'Brand tagline use' section on Brand Space for details.

Logo lockup*

Together makes progress Deloitte logo lockup clear space

Our Together makes progress Deloitte logo lockup is a specially designed, branded wordmark that marries our logo to our platform's tagline. To maintain legibility and reduce friction with creative elements, refer to the two examples below for guidance. In general, The clear space for the Deloitte logo is determined by the height of the Deloitte "D". Intention and placement determines which clear space to follow.

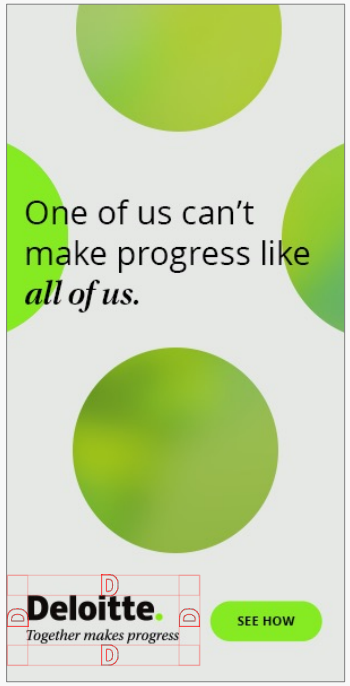
For Digital & Web: use 1 "D" height

Example: Banner ad



For TV & Video: 1.5 of the "D" height

Example: End frame w/ overlay

Example: End frame w/ 50% black opacity

*Generally, the logo lockup should not be used on documents intended to be shared with Restricted Entities. Please refer to the 'Brand tagline use' section on Brand Space for details.

Logo lockup*

Together makes progress Deloitte logo lockup – applications

There are two key ways to use our logo within a communication piece.

- Stamp – As a stamp, which will be placed at the bottom of the canvas or artboard.
- Sign-off – Providing clear attribution to a piece of communication.

Stamp
For example, the logo lockup is placed in the lower right-hand corner, located inside the margins dictated by the square grid. This is most often used in social posts, print & OOH.

Note: The lockup can be applied to the bottom left or right of the canvas. Avoid using the stamp at the top.

Sign-off
The logo lockup is placed large, front and center, by itself, to indicate clear attribution of everything that came before it. This is most often used in A/V expressions in video or web.

*Generally, the logo lockup should not be used on documents intended to be shared with Restricted Entities. Please refer to the 'Brand tagline use' section on Brand Space for details.

Logo lockup*

Untethered lockup—Guidance for usage

Our tagline Together makes progress in most cases must be tethered to the Deloitte logo as a lockup. However, there are special instances where it can become untethered and used as a statement. Should be used primarily for awareness-driven purposes, sparingly and must be approved by brand. There are two orientations of this treatment as illustrated: baseline (1), and stacked (2a., 2b.).

Rules for usage

- Must be approved by Brand for usage. To get approval send request to the US Brand Team.
- Cannot reproduce your own treatment. You must use approved artwork as-is.
- Statement lockup must be treated in Stix Two Text semibold italic font.
- Can only be treated in sentence case, no punctuation.
- Deloitte logo must be present on the placement. This will vary upon application. For example, the Deloitte logo will appear on a sleeve of a shirt, which is totally acceptable.
- Must be treated in one color. Refer to brand color palette: ex. greens, blacks and whites.
- Acceptable use cases: merch, gear swag, digital signage, awareness-level animation, etc.

Approved as-is artwork must be used for untethered lockup.
Files can be accessed below.

Guidance below is for the minimum threshold of the Deloitte wordmark in relationship with the tagline. The scale of the logo depends on application. Refer to examples on next page for reference.

1. Baseline treatment

2a. Stacked treatment - Center

2b. Stacked treatment – Left justified

Type

Typefaces

The Together makes progress visual identity system employs two typefaces, each with specific rules guiding their usage.

Open Sans Light
Open Sans Regular
Open Sans Bold

Primary: Open Sans
Our primary typeface is Open Sans, a clean and legible sans serif. You should lead with it in every expression. There are 3 different weights to use, depending on the context.

Usage
- Headlines
- Body copy
- CTAs

Weights
- Light
- Regular
- Bold

Stix Two Text Semibold Italic

Secondary: Stix Two Text
Our secondary typeface is Stix Two Text, a distinct, calligraphic serif. It is to be used sparingly ONLY as a visual accent on a single word in a longer piece of headline copy. It is to be used only in its semibold, italic weight.

Usage
- Single word accent in headline copy
- Logo lockup

Weight
- Semibold Italic

Download to Stix Two Text →

Type

Headline: When and how to use Stix Two Text Italic

Hero headlines should always be a combination of Open Sans Regular and Stix Two Text Semibold Italic, rendered in sentence case.

When to use italic: Stix Two Text

- The word you choose to highlight in Stix Two Text is a subjective, case-by-case decision that each copywriter & designer must make.
- Whenever possible, defer to highlighting the word in the headline that most strongly indicates either "togetherness" or "progress."

Color guidance

On light backgrounds:
Keep all text inclusive of Open Sans and Stix Two Text one color, either black or #282728.

On dark backgrounds:
Open Sans should be white, while Stix Two Text can be highlighted using the hex #86EB22, Deloitte green or blue-green gradient.

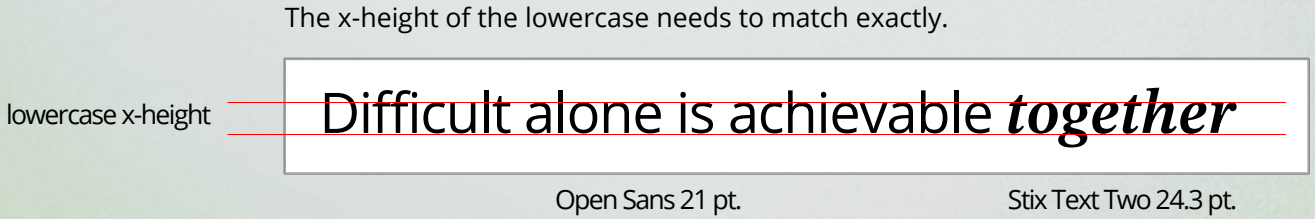
Type

Headline: When and how to use Stix Two Text Italic

Important: Visually matching type sizes

Please note that the type size for the two typefaces is inherently not equal. At a glance, Open Sans at 100pt will look considerably larger than Stix Two Text at 100pt. This is a byproduct of the differences between a sans serif and a calligraphic serif.



How to match guidance

- Matching height – When setting your type sizes, you must match the x-height of the lowercase in both faces.
- Point sizes – The point size differential in the example above is Open Sans 21 pt., Stix Text Two 24.3 pt.
- Align – This is achieved optically, by making a guide and aligning the top of the horizontal crossbars of a lowercase “t” in both faces.
- Once you achieve this visual parity, you can scale the copy up or down and the two typefaces will maintain the same scale relationship.

Type

Do's & don'ts

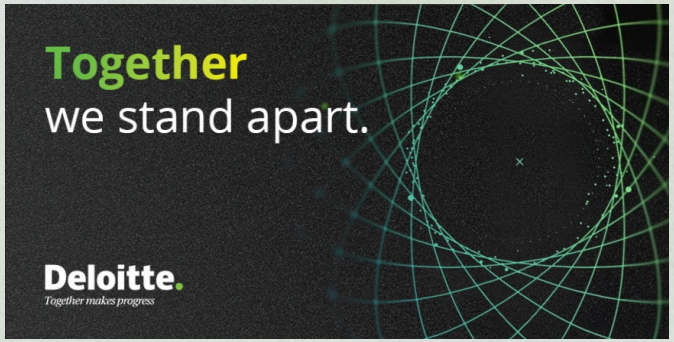
Our typography has been designed to work in combination with imagery and visual elements with our circle system as a support element. With legibility in mind, there are things to keep in mind to maintain legibility consistency.

DO place your headlines over motifs and expressions, as long as legibility is maintained.

DO use the expanded color palette on italic.

DO use Open Sans as italic. It is NOT required to use Stix Two Text. The same stylistic principles would apply.

DO use variations of Open Sans, for example, bold and all caps is permissible, italic MUST remain in sentence case.



DO use non-italic treatments; but apply the same principles to highlighting key words.

Do's & don'ts

Our typography has been designed to work in combination with imagery and visual elements with our circle system as a support element. With legibility in mind, there are things to keep in mind to maintain legibility consistency.

The headline SHOULD NOT compete with the expression.

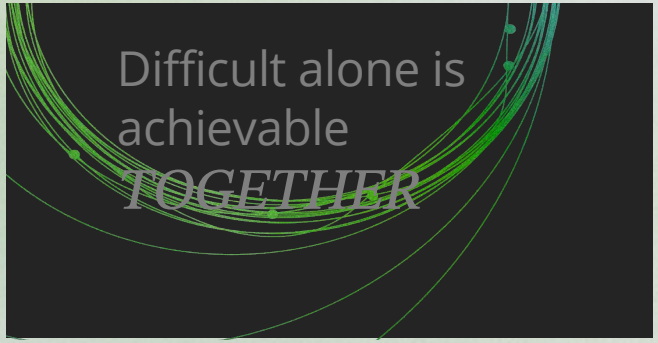
DO NOT use more than one italic treatment.

DO NOT use colors outside of the Deloitte brand color palette.



DO NOT make headlines difficult to read. Must pass ADA compliance check.

DO NOT treat more than one word in italics. Small word combos are permissible, for example: all of us.

DO NOT use Stix Two Text in body copy under headlines.

Color palette

Color

Deloitte green is a fundamental signature of our brand and should be present in all communications. It is one of our five brand codes and a pillar of our identity. All primary surfaces must include a prominent element of Deloitte Green. The green code can be met through circular motif, headline type and UX elements. Green should never be low contrast or dull.

Dark backgrounds:
For copy and logos accompanying dark backgrounds in the Together makes progress visual identity system, we defer to light gray for copy and the white logo with Deloitte green dot.

Secondary colors that scale from black, to grays and white can come into play when we want the primary colors to stand out in particular executions. We also have added in a neon green and some shades of green and blue.

Gradient colors can be applied to give a sense of depth and dimension and enhance visual interest on certain elements, e.g., circular motifs.

FUNCTIONAL

Storefront / business offering

When representing our storefront and core business functions, it's important for our audience and our clients to understand our services, capabilities and core offerings. Visuals should clearly telegraph or represent what we do, and how we help create an impact.

Examples of placements

- Website storefront pages
- External emails
- When communicating core functions
- Social media posts
- Service- & industry-level media ads
- Demand gen

CONCEPTUAL

Communication themes, ideas & narratives

When communicating big ideas, themes and narratives that aren't one-size-fits-all, our visuals should inspire curiosity, invite engagement, and allow for nuanced storytelling rather than simply telegraphing a single message.

Our approach / themes

The Together makes progress visual identity system uses photography* to show the real-life benefits of working with and for Deloitte. The following pages provide examples of our four main photography themes: business environments, collaboration and ideation, outcomes, and stylized. These four themes may be used individually or combined to tell a bigger story.

Framing & aesthetic

Consider how photos are used with Deloitte's creative layering & treatments.

- Photography should have a clear subject matter.
- Must be able to scale down for social uses and be a "quick get."
- Allow space for creative layering:
  - Inserting in the circle
  - Applying graphical treatment
  - Type and logo
  - Clear hierarchy of elements to achieve overall clean design
- Uncluttered backgrounds keeps focus on subject of story.
- Images remain more natural and neutral as to not clash with the Deloitte color palette.
- If soft focus is used, it should feel purposeful (i.e., highlighting a person, interaction or connection).

Brand essence

Do help determine if an image is right for the Deloitte brand, ask yourself:

Does it tell a story?

- Convey together by showing multiple people, disciplines or connected elements in the photo.
- Don't try to tell the full story with just the image, use the full composition.
- Convey progress by highlighting human, societal or business outcomes within the photo or through the layout's composition.

Does it feel human and authentic?

- It should connect emotionally, as well as to the theme.

Does it expand the idea of "together" in compelling ways?

- Together isn't only about people working with people and photography can convey that.
- "Together" can refer to an individual with technology.
- Depict individuals or groups of people delivering the work or benefiting from collaboration.
- Concepts and themes can be expressed through a visual metaphor.
- Showing scenes or environments can inspire or help visualize our aspirations.

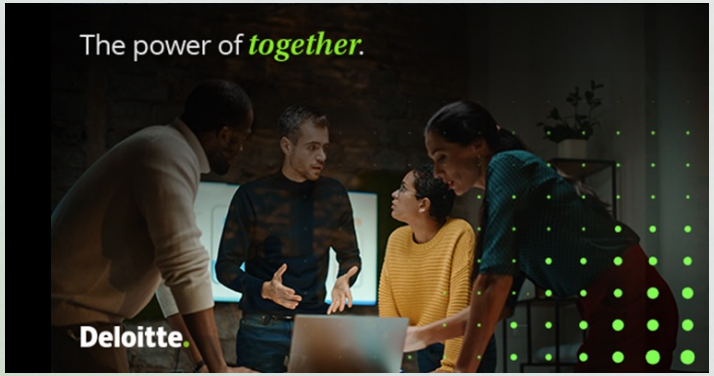
Do's & don'ts



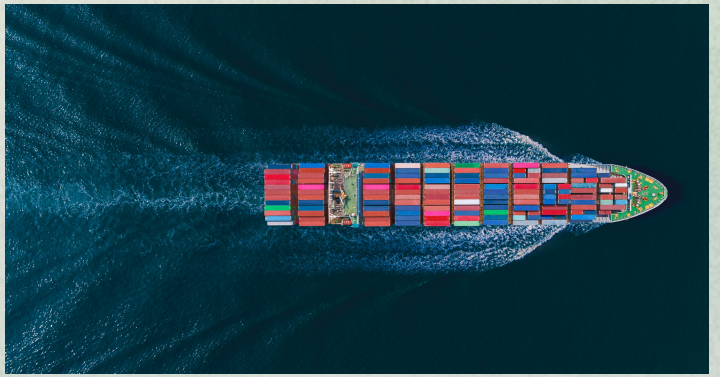
DO use photography that allows breathing room for typography.

DO use photography with one focal point.

DO use photography that is clean and allows our VI to complement it without overwhelming the design.

DO use photography that is conceptual and abstract where and when appropriate.

DO use photography that uses natural lighting and feels candid.



DO use photography without people to convey business stories, outcomes and impact.

Do's & don'ts

DO NOT use photography that already has an overlay that competes with the chosen motif.

DO NOT use photography that feels inauthentic or staged.

DO NOT use photos that are created poorly with AI.

DO NOT use photos that lose their meaning when scaled down or are too complicated.

DO NOT use photography that lacks a focal point and doesn't leave blank space to overlay Deloitte expressions.

DO NOT use photography that lacks diversity.

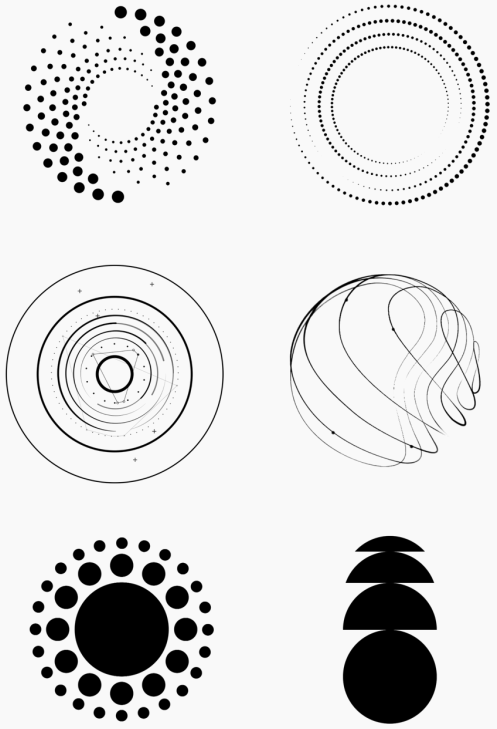
Platform visual system

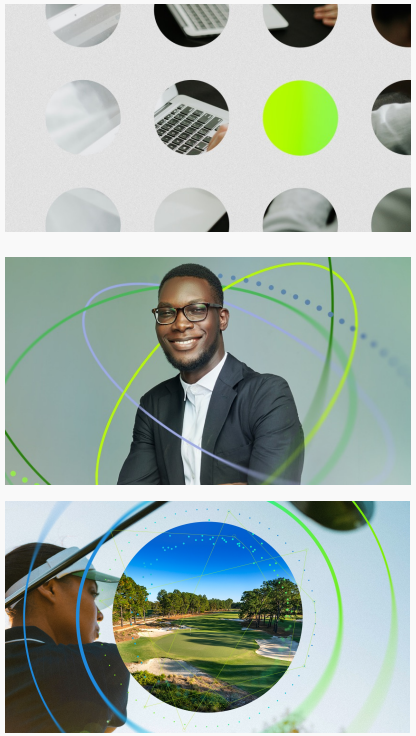
Circle system

Deloitte's refreshed visual system embraces new ways to apply our iconic circle, giving us more flex in how we tell stories across a full range of tactics and channels. To use the new system and stay on brand apply the following:

1. Circular motif: Whether you draw on our existing library or create your own, motifs are the starting points for visual communication.
2. Expressions: Once you have a motif, you can use it in a variety of ways to help tell your story. Expressions aren't limited to single circles or even full circles. Apply them creatively and with your message and audience in mind.
3. Composition: All brand elements come together through composition alongside photography and copy to tell distinct, on-brand stories. Compositions should feel dynamic in nature.

Copyright © 2025 Deloitte Development LLC. All rights reserved.





STEP 01

Motifs

These elements are the building blocks for your service, offering or brand platform. Our designs expand the circle to our larger visual message or expression.

STEP 02

Expressions

Rather than confining our visual expression to a single circle, we can create patterns derived from a dot motif. These expressions allow us to showcase our unique stories, offerings, and services while creating cohesion across the brand.

STEP 03

Composition

Composition shows how these Visual elements come into play when motifs, expressions, color, photography and typography come together. Combine all of these things based on framing and narrative.

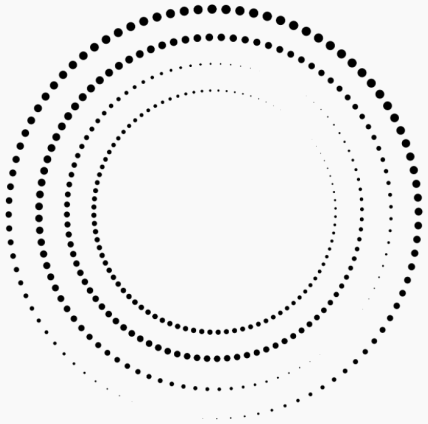
Circle system: Step 01

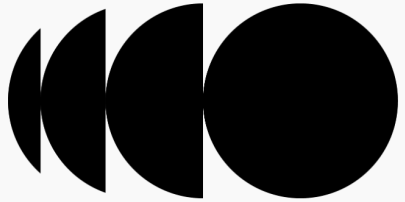
Motif designs

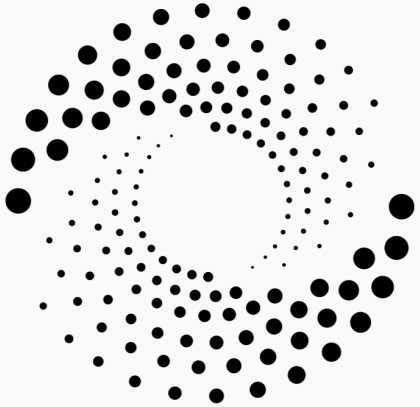
Our motifs can use a variety of sizes and placements of circles to create flexibility within our brand.

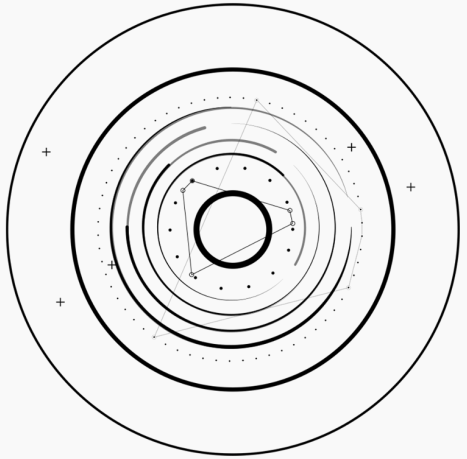
Usage guide

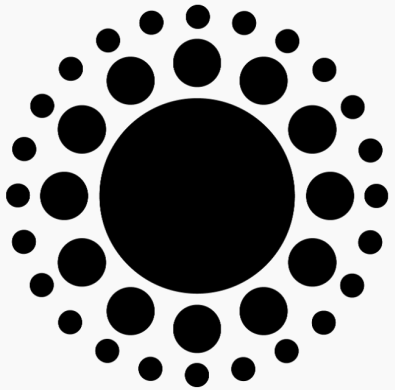
- You can use multiple elements from the motifs within your designs.
- If your motif is more complex, make sure to avoid using too many colors or images to maintain a clean look.











Legacy motifs
Existing circular motifs can be used and modified to work with our updated visual platform.

New motifs
If a new motif is needed, consult either the brand team or your creative team for guidance.

Circle system: Step 02

Expressions

Moving beyond the circular motif

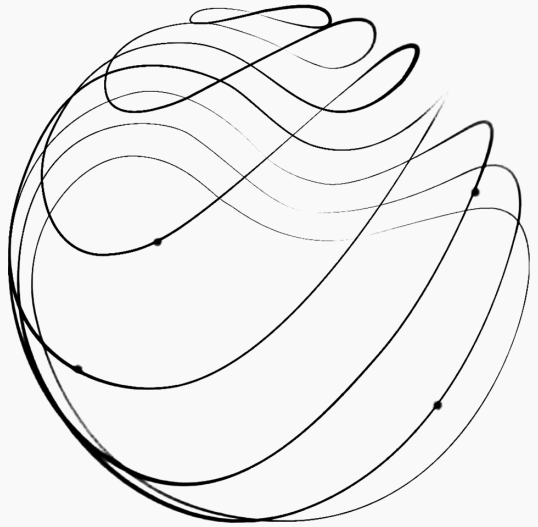
Using the placement and designs of the motifs we can start to bring these visuals to life by adding strokes, colors and variations.

Utilize aspects of the motif or create variations of design elements inspired by the motif to go beyond the circle.

Usage guide

- Graphics should use a color variation that can work on light and dark backgrounds.
- Use strokes to continue the story of the circle.
- Use gradients and colors from the style guide to bring the expressions to life.

Example: Hero motif



Example: Expressions

Circle system: Step 02

Expressions: Crop guide

The size of frame and content determine the crop. We have the ability to fill the full frame and crop our circles when it makes sense.

Example: Lower third cropped

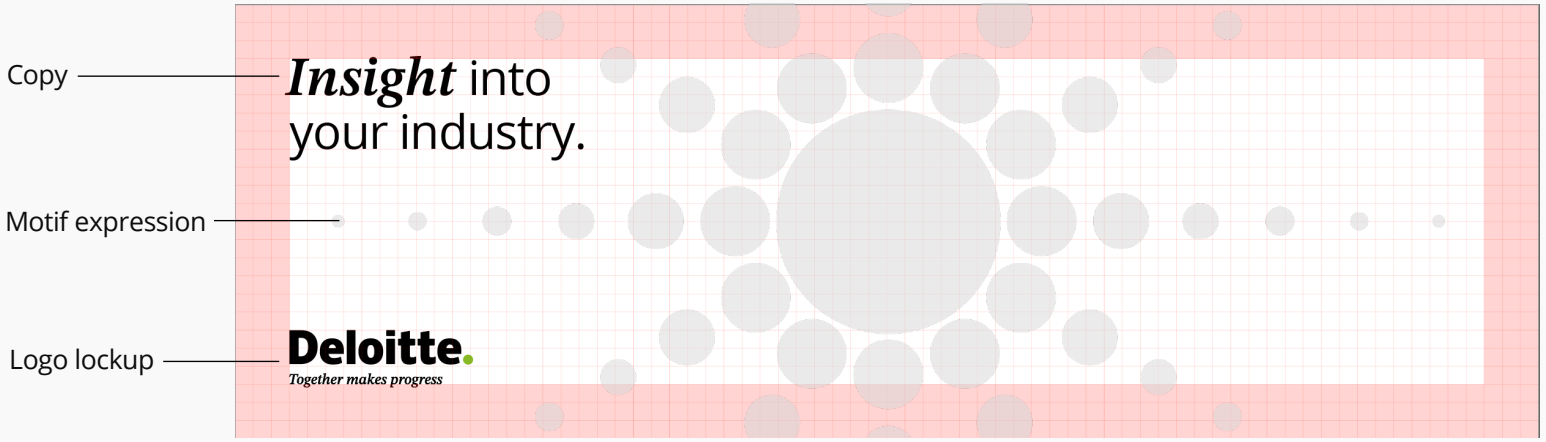
Circle system: Step 03

Composition

Once you have a clearly defined expression of your motif, you can add more visual elements, photography and typography as needed.

Composition represents all of the properties of the circle system coming together in different ways.



Usage guide

- No more than 3 elements per frame.
- Subject matter, copy and branding should be well balanced.
- Make use of the canvas on your artboard with visual elements. Motifs, expressions and photography can be cropped accordingly. Some examples included are:
  - Full-bleed photography
  - Illustrations
  - Motif graphics

Do's and don'ts

DO use place the full circle to the right side of the composition when using cut out circles.

DO use color blocks contain both the headline and imagery.

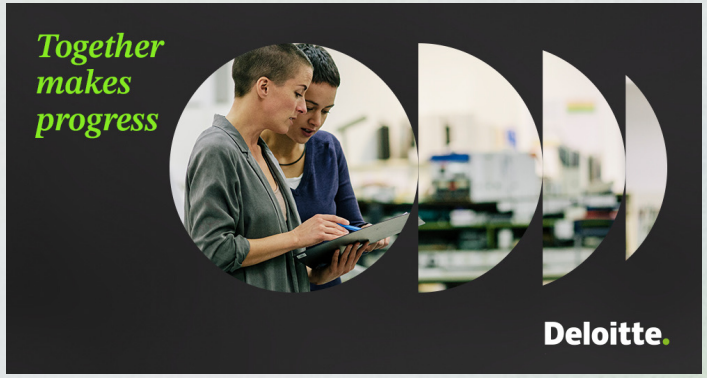
Circle system

Do's and don'ts

DO NOT use the circles in a way that may resemble another brand (i.e., two overlapping circles look like Mastercard).



DO NOT place circle cutouts to the right of full circle, the visual should always resolve with a full circle.

DO NOT use color blocks that place the circle within colored squares over full-bleed imagery or other background.

DO NOT cut up the circle in an extensive matter (i.e., making it look like a kaleidoscope).

Layout grids by tactic

Grid / Lockup / Headline scale relationship*

All communications should be laid out on a square grid, customized for the aspect ratio of that specific piece of communication.

The scale of this grid is determined by the height of the Together makes progress Deloitte logo lockup. In all instances, the lockup should be exactly 3 grid squares high.

Likewise, the copy line should always be exactly 2 grid squares high, with 1 grid square of space defining the leading between lines.

This method ensures a consistent scale relationship between copy and logo at every brand touch point.

Copyright © 2025 Deloitte Development LLC. All rights reserved.

*Generally, the logo lockup should not be used on documents intended to be shared with Restricted Entities. Please refer to the 'Brand tagline use' section on Brand Space for details.

Color palette

Making your grid

This slide illustrates the construction of your grid.

The most effective way to achieve consistency across different aspect ratios is to take the shortest side of the layout and establish a square grid, ideally using even numbers on at least one side.

Once your grid is built, the grid squares determine the relative size of your Together makes progress Deloitte logo lockup (entire lockup = 3 squares tall), and your headline copy (one line = 2 squares tall). Applying this method will ensure visual consistency across different aspect ratios and brand touch points.

Introduction

Each year, Deloitte prioritizes opportunities for business growth and awareness. These include core brand efforts such as Talent and Sports Sponsorships. They also cover issues and technologies that drive opportunity across industries, such as Generative AI, innovation and IndustryAdvantage. Our application of the platform to these areas can serve as examples as you look to apply the platform to your business.

For more detail on each, see the individual examples linked on the following pages. We encourage other SGO and brand-level areas to follow suit.

Business applications

Two key questions

There are two questions we get asked more than any others about applying the refreshed platform.

#1: Do I need to adopt this visual platform moving forward?

Yes.
Where appropriate*, you should begin applying the logo lockup and infusing core messages immediately in new materials and when developing communication themes. You may, as feasible, also choose to update existing materials that have long shelf lives.

And no.
This visual platform is an extension of Deloitte's core brand. We will continue to retain the use of circular graphics and many of the core styles and elements applied historically.

We anticipate that, over time, businesses will choose to evolve visual expression naturally as the need for new campaigns and graphic updates arise.

*For detailed guidance on logo lockup guidelines and exceptions, see Brand Space.

#2: Is there a deadline for adoption?

No.
We're not looking for every business and service to immediately revise existing campaign themes or the visual identities you've invested in.

Instead, identify big opportunities on your marketing calendar and assess how the tagline and visual system can work with and elevate those opportunities … then evolve to the refreshed platform as is right for your business.

Opportunities to evolve:

- Strategic messaging updates
- Product or service area launches
- Generating new communication themes to support primary activations
- Major event and trade show appearances
- External advertising and paid social campaigns
- Updating primary landing pages on D.com
- Major thought leadership and report launches

Working with external vendors

We recommend working with Marketing Excellence or other in-house resources to apply this platform to messaging, visuals and/or activations. If you choose to involve external vendors, please do the following:

Request a platform and brand walk-through from your marketing pod's creative or strategy lead before starting the project or finalizing a scope of work.

Involve a pod-aligned creative or strategy lead during briefings and initial reviews to ensure proper application of standards.

Provide this guide, as well as key Brand Space and asset links to the vendor or resource.

If questions arise, contact US Brand.
